The United States is monitoring through its intelligence the medical conditions of the young North Korean leader, Kim Jong Un, who would have died after undergoing previous surgery. Kim Jong Un's death has already rocked half the world with primarily the United States of America. Hours of apprehension while from authoritative sources we learn that Kim's place is already her sister's. Her name is Kim Yo-jong, the younger sister of the North Korean leader. It is the woman who, in the last message of response to Trump's insults towards Kim, gave him the "dotard". Term unknown to most, and immediately went viral between Facebook and Twitter. Kim Jong Un himself would have designated her in unsuspected times. Friday 24 April at 23:25
